*Easy
Step-by-Step Instructions*

Step 1 – Wash and dry the application area. Roll the Modeling Wax in your hands to warm and soften. Apply the wax to the desired area and work the edges into the skin creating a wound effect. Using a little mineral oil on the fingers and tools will remove the tackiness. Use a dull straight edge tool to make a cut in the wax. Peel back the edges of the opening.

Step 2 – Apply the Grey or Green makeup foundation over the skin. Then, using the powder puff, lightly press Mehron's Colorset Powder into the foundation. Dust off the excess powder.

Step 3 – Using the sponge, apply the white makeup to the bony areas around the face, above the eyes, along the cheekbone and jaw line, and on top of the nose. Blend the edges of white so they fade into the foundation. Lightly powder these areas with Colorset Powder.

Step 4 – Using a clean sponge, apply the black makeup to the eyes. Next apply a small amount to the sides of nose, above the chin, and to the fold between the nose and mouth. Blend the edges so they fade into the foundation and white makeup. Lightly powder these areas with Colorset Powder. Take the black pencil and draw the stitches to desired areas.

Step 5 – For the finishing touch, apply the Blood Gel to the open wound created with the wax.
